Номономо, Остовев 24тн. 1870.

THERE is a decided significance in the activity which the Chinese have of late years been displaying in turning out gunboats from the Chinese as we may, we cannot afford to shut our eyes to their doings. when they are actively engaged in proriding themselves with war vessels made upon the most improved modern principles. A corvette of 1,000 tons burden was recently launched at Shanghai, and the keel is laid for a frigate of 3,000 tons. Both these vessels are to be officered and manned exclusively by Chinese. Of course, this last element may be taken, as an evidence, in a certain way, that there is little to be feared from them; but, in another point of view, it is significant of considerable danger. The Chiness would not be so foolish as to attempt to come out and make a fair fight with any European gunboat or man-of-war; but the use to which their vessels would in all likelihood be put would be, in case of hostilities occurring, to go to some defenceless place such as Ningpo, and there commit cruelties and barbarities on the European residents. Such action would be entirely in accordance with Chinese tactics and traditions, and if they have war vessels, officered exclusively by natives, there will be no security that some such act will not be committed. is amusing to find our gunboats constantly. placed at the service of the Chinese to put down piracy, while, instead of building and fitting out gunboats for that purpose, they are making corvettes and frigates which in all likelihood will some day be turned against Legislative, not of the Executive Council. foreigners. "Now, the question is, whether the Legisla. tive Council considers it desirable to throw so much power as this into the hands of the THE Edition for 1870 is now ready for the Executive. The matter, ha is stated by the ATTORNET-GENERAL, is of most importance as regards the Chinese, from whom the bulk of the taxes they pay are levied in the form of fees, so that if the Executive have the power to alter those fees, they will virtually be invested with entire control over the taxation of the natives. It is true that the Executive Council cannot exceed the nims originally voted; but this is roully not of great importance as regards the true bearing of the question; because, it appears that there are a certain portion of fees leviable from Chinese under old Ordinanoes, which either on account of their being objected to by the natives or from doubts as to the power to evy them, have been left in abeyance for some years. Such seems to have been the case with respect to the tax upon street coolies, concerning which a proclamation was recently issued from the office of the PROTECTOR OF CHINESE; and in such a case the working of the matter would be thus. Fees luft for a long time would be made against them as being oppressive; in consideration of the protest they chargeable in the Ordinance, and at all events so much more revenue would be obtained. handed a counterfeit coin, (the dollar produced of ware in which there was little or no some time in Shanghai, and will shortly visit The effect of the whole action would be, in fact the revival of a tax that had fallen into abeyance and would be as good as the imposition of a new tax. The chief fault in the Government of Hongkong is the immense amount of power exercised ciple, it is unwise to increase, without better security than is possessed at present that it will be used according to the general wishes of the community. In respect to all matters apportaining to the Chinese, which are of great importance as bearing upon the well being and prosperity of the Colony, the voice; and whatever may be said as to general matters, it certainly seems inad. visable to confer upon the Government any accusation against him was that he had em. DEMAND FOR THE SURRENDER OF THE

THREATENED VIOLATION OF NEUTBAL

It is remoured that vesterday the existing difference between the Prussian and French Ministers respecting the provisions of the Japanese Proclamation of Neutrality culminated in the former formally demanding the surrender of the Barracks, arms, and material, now in Yokohama, to the Prussian forces. In the event of refusal the German war ships would cease the inaction agreed upon formerly. The domand was rejected, and the letter shown to the Jupanese Governor, who declared bis intention of enforcing the Mikado's proclamation of neutrality : having first consulted the Ministers of England and America. The latter united in remonstrance against the demands of the North German Charge d'Affaires, who, it is said, as-

ENGLAND'S LETHARGY. "(Pall Mall Gazette.) The events of the last fortnight have come upon us so suddenly that we can hardly as yet realize their possible consequences to ourselves: but day by day we shall awaken to the fact that the altered position of affairs on the Continent exposes us to certain risks against which it is necessary we should guard ourselver, and that our own internal arrangements must be modified to correspond with the prospect before us. When the Germans have gone back to their own country, and France remains with her newly formed army anxious by some brilliant exploit to efface the memory of the present war, she may not impossibly turn her attention not, perhaps, to us directly, but to designs which suming the Republic still to exist and to have obtained the "moral anpport" of America, for which M. Jules Favre has already telegraphed. it is not unlikely that the question of the Alabama claims may lead to offers of physical support from across the Atlantic, and we may also be sure that both the moral and physical support of the Fenians will be freely offered to the new Republic. Forecasting the future, we may therefore look with certainty to increased uncasiness in Ireland, to say the very least. Then, again, the Spanish Republicans, relying on the sympathy of the French Repub-licans, will probably urge the restitution of Gibraltar; and Russia, taking advantage of the exhaustion of Prussia after per present effort, will put herself en evidence and pursue her own designs in the East without much reference to our interests. These ure perhaps, trifling matters, but ought to lead us to make some preparation for contingencies that may arise. first of all, we ought to put saide the imposing attitude which imposes on nobody but our selves; secondly, we ought, while preaching general disarmament, to provide ourselves immediately with breechloaders and reorganize our army : thirdly, we ought, while professing our readiness to embrace all mankind, make it clearly understood that we are in a position to stand no nonsense, and prepared not only to defend our own rights, but also, if need be, to advance our own interests. Inactivity is apt to become provoking, and England can only afford to be inactive so long as there is no force existing greater than her own whose provocation she dare not despise. If the lesson taught our lethergy, we shall fully deserve the rude awakening we are sooner or later certain to THE WAR AND TRADE The Economist reckons upon the effect which operation, which occupied from ten to eleven Lee Asze and Wong Ayune, house-coolie known. The Modern Buddhist. The Modern Buddhist: being the views of a Siamese Minister of State on his own and other Religious.

(London : Trabner & Co., 1870.)

This is un extremely interesting little book. The minister whose views it records-Chap Phys Thipskon—conducted the foreign affairs of ris country from 1856 till two years ago, when he was stricken with blindness and was obliged to retire into private life. It was then that he published the work-"a book explaining many things"-the more important parts of which are here translated. We need scarcely say that, looked at from our point of view, some of his sometimes expresses opinions on subjects which are altogether beyond the range of science. But the truth is, that the many floral extracts At the same time he has in many respects indvanced far beyond the great mass of his co. religionists. He will accept nothing merely because it has been handed down by tradition. but demands proofs which will stand the test of rigid examination. In endeavouring to explain such phenomena as rain, epidemic diseases, the tides, &c., he will have nothing to do with tive odour of any single one. The effect of the spirits, good or bad; he takes his stand on obser- combination is the most agreeable and refresh- REDUCTION IN THE RATES OF PREMIUM. nometimes be inadequate, they are generally quite in the spirit of modern Western investigation so far as he understands them, he heartily accepts the European doctrines of astronomy. All this strikes a European reader as very incompatible with certain aspects of the Buddhist religion; but. Chao Phya Thipakon is convinced that the land the contents of the more." But this can be said only of the Murray & Lanman's: the fluids which they they call Florida Water, but they possess none of the wonderful virtues of the wonderful virtues of the wonderful virtues of the wonder Buddha knew quite well the truth about the be particular to ask for the Florida Water prereal order of the world, and that he accommo- pared by dated his language to the prevuiling conceptions of his time, only that he might be the more free to proclaim his doctrines on higher subjects. Hence it is proclaimed lawful for a modern Buddhist to open his mind readily to all the results of modern research. Some of the semireligious customs of his countrymen the exminister rationalises in a most amusing way. For instance, the beating of gouga and firing of gans which take place on the occasion of an celipse, are by no means what they are generally represented—an effort to frighten the draon who holds the sun in his jaws, so as to make im drop it; they are the expressions of the popular pride and pleasure that the mathematicians the country are able to predict the time when the eclipse shall occur! With the strictly theological portions of this book, we have of course nothing to do here; but we may state that in comparing the different religious of the world, with his own, Chao Phya Thipakon is as far removed as possible from a function spirit. He expounds his views calmly, and appears always ready to accept new light from whatever quarter it may come. The objections he ruises to the Christian theory of the world betoken a thoughtful and inquiring mind, although, unfortunately, those from whom he derived this Christianity seem to have been exceptionally poor representatives of their cause. The ethical conceptions of the book are generally of a very noble character. In one point—the proper treatment of the lower animals the writer, of course, carries his doctrine too far, and he certainly bases it on grounds with which Westerns can have no sympathy; but there can be no doubt that he is practically fur nearer the truth than the great mass of Europeans of our own day. On the whole, this book may be accepted as a good omen for the future of the East. It proves that amongst the best minds a genuine spirit of inquiry has been aroused, and that the old cosmogonies and mperstitions are already beginning to give way
